Grateful for Teachers

students entering the field of education.

I'm very passionate about the role that education plays in our society. To help that passion come to fruition, I've had the privilege of serving Indiana University School of Education Alumni Board of Directors for the past seven years. Having a firsthand view of the development of future educators is incredibly rewarding.

Dr. Jake Allen with MHS alumnus Megan (Neiderer) Bybee

IU School of Education leaders offered me the incredible opportunity to represent the school's alumni and address the graduating Class of 2022 at the spring commencement ceremony last weekend. The theme of my message was simply gratitude to these young people. We are all indebted to these new graduates for choosing the field of education and following their passions to help others succeed. Every occupation begins with a teacher opening a student's mind to the opportunities in their own future.

The highlight of my evening was seeing a former student, Megan (Niederer) Bybee, MHS 2011 alumnus, who was receiving her Master's Degree in Adult Education. I'm proud of all of our former students for their achievements, but I do have a special place in my heart for those who enter the field of education.

Addressing this class and hopefully inspiring a new wave of teachers was one of my greatest honors. I hope anyone who is thinking about being a teacher, either straight from high school or in a transition to teaching program, will follow their dream. My door will always be open and I will always be grateful for your commitment to Our Kids – Our Future.

Owens Honored
